BILL

To amend the Criminal Law (Sexual Offences and Related Matters) Amendment Act, 2007, so as to ensure that children of certain ages are not held criminally liable for engaging in consensual sexual acts with each other; to give presiding officers a discretion in order to decide in individual cases whether the particulars of children should be included in the National Register for Sex Offenders or not; to provide for a procedure in terms of which certain persons may apply for the removal of their particulars from the National Register for Sex Offenders; to provide for the removal of the particulars of children who were convicted for having engaged in consensual sexual acts with each other, from the National Register for Sex Offenders; to provide for the expungement of the criminal records of certain persons; and to provide for matters connected therewith.

PREAMBLE

BEARING IN MIND that the Constitutional Court found, in the case of Teddy Bear Clinic for Abused Children and Others v the Minister of Justice and Constitutional Development and Others [2013] ZACC 35, that sections 15 and 16 of the Criminal Law (Sexual Offences and Related Matters) Amendment Act, 2007 (Act No. 32 of 2007), are unconstitutional insofar as they criminalise consensual sexual conduct between adolescents;

AND BEARING IN MIND that the primary objective of sections 15 and 16 of the Act, namely to protect children, who are 12 years or older but under the age of 16 years, from adult sexual predators remains unaffected by the Constitutional Court judgment and consequently also does not lower the age of consent in respect of sexual acts to 12 years;

AND BEARING IN MIND that the purposes of discouraging adolescents from prematurely engaging in consensual sexual conduct which may harm their development, and from engaging in sexual conduct in a manner that increases the likelihood of the risks associated with sexual conduct materialising, are legitimate and important;

AND BEARING IN MIND that the Constitutional Court, in the case of J v the National Director of Public Prosecutions and Others [2014] ZACC 13, found that the automatic inclusion of the particulars of persons, who were children at the time of the commission of sexual offences, in the National Register for Sex Offenders is contrary to the “best interest of the child” principle and therefore not justified in an open and democratic society,

Parliament of the Republic of South Africa therefore enacts as follows:—

Amendment of section 1 of Act 32 of 2007

1. Section 1 of the Criminal Law (Sexual Offences and Related Matters) Amendment Act, 2007 (Act No. 32 of 2007), (hereinafter referred to as the “principal Act”), is hereby amended by the substitution for the definition of “child” of the following definition:

- ‘ “child” means[—]
 [(a)] a person under the age of 18 years[; or
 (b) with reference to sections 15 and 16, a person 12 years or older but under the age of 16 years, and “children” has a corresponding meaning;’.

2. The following section is hereby substituted for section 15 of the principal Act:

“Acts of consensual sexual penetration with certain children (statutory rape)

 (a) 12 years of age or older but under the age of 16 years; or
 (b) either 16 or 17 years of age and the age difference between A and B was not more than two years.

(2) (a) The institution of a prosecution for an offence referred to in subsection (1) must be authorised in writing by the [National] Director of Public Prosecutions if [both] A [and B were children] was either 16 or 17 years of age at the time of the alleged commission of the offence and the age difference between A and B was more than two years[: Provided that, in the event that the National Director of Public Prosecutions authorises the institution of a prosecution, both A and B must be charged with contravening subsection (1).]

(b) The [National] Director of Public Prosecutions concerned may [not] delegate his or her power to decide whether a prosecution in terms of this section should be instituted or not.”.

Substitution of section 16 of Act 32 of 2007

3. The following section is hereby substituted for section 16 of the principal Act:

“Acts of consensual sexual violation with certain children (statutory sexual assault)

16. (1) A person (“A”) who commits an act of sexual violation with a child (“B”) who is 12 years of age or older but under the age of 16 years is, despite the consent of B to the commission of such an act, guilty of the offence of having committed an act of consensual sexual violation with a child, unless A, at the time of the alleged commission of such an act, was—
 (a) 12 years of age or older but under the age of 16 years; or
 (b) either 16 or 17 years of age and the age difference between A and B was not more than two years.

(2) (a) The institution of a prosecution for an offence referred to in subsection (1) must be authorised in writing by the relevant Director of Public Prosecutions if [both] A [and B were children] was either 16 or 17 years of age at the time of the alleged commission of the offence and the age difference between A and B was more than two years[: Provided that, in the event that the Director of Public Prosecutions authorises the institution of a prosecution, both A and B must be charged with contravening subsection (1)].

(b) The Director of Public Prosecutions concerned may [not] delegate his or her power to decide whether a prosecution in terms of this section should be instituted or not.”

- that court for such offence, in the presence of the convicted person; or
- (ii) made a finding and given a direction in terms of section 77(6) or 78(6) of the Criminal Procedure Act, 1977, that the person is by reason of mental illness or mental defect not capable of understanding the proceedings so as to make a proper defence or was, by reason of mental illness or mental defect, not criminally responsible for the act which constituted a sexual offence against a child or a person who is mentally disabled, in the presence of that person, must, subject to paragraph (c), make an order that the particulars of the person be included in the Register.”;
- (b) by the insertion after paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of the following paragraphs:

- (ii) the court has considered a report by the probation officer referred to in section 71 of the Child Justice Act, 2008, which deals with the probability of A committing another sexual offence against a child or a person who is mentally disabled, as the case may be, in future;
- (iii) A has been given the opportunity to address the court as to why his or her particulars should not be included in the Register; and

 - (ii) submitting to the court an affidavit by him or her stating that no charge relating to a sexual offence against a child or a person who is mentally disabled, as the case may be, is pending against him or her; or
- (b) after the implementation of this Chapter, may, at any time before the expiration of the periods referred to in subsection (1), apply to the court referred to in section 50(2)(c) for an order that his or her particulars must be removed from the Register by—

Short title

14. This Act is called the Criminal Law (Sexual Offences and Related Matters) Amendment Act Amendment Act, 2015.

MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE CRIMINAL LAW
(SEXUAL OFFENCES AND RELATED MATTERS) AMENDMENT
ACT AMENDMENT BILL, 2014

1. PURPOSE OF BILL

- 1.1 The Criminal Law (Sexual Offences and Related Matters) Amendment Act Amendment Bill, 2014 (“the Bill”), aims to give effect to two separate judgments of the Constitutional Court in the case of Teddy Bear Clinic for Abused Children and Others v the Minister of Justice and Constitutional Development and Others [2013] ZACC 35 (“the Teddy Bear case”) and the case of J v the National Director of Public Prosecutions and Others [2014] ZACC 13 (“the J case”).
- 1.2 The Teddy Bear case: The primary objective of sections 15 and 16 of the Criminal Law (Sexual Offences and Related Matters) Amendment Act, 2007 (Act No. 32 of 2007) (“the Act”), is to protect children, who are 12 years or older but under the age of 16 years (“adolescents”), from sexual exploitation by adults. This objective remains unaffected by the judgment of the Constitutional Court. Section 15(1) provides that statutory rape is committed if—
- (a) an adult or a child who is 16 years or older engages in consensual sexual penetration with an adolescent; or
 - (b) two adolescents engage in consensual sexual penetration with each other.
- 1.3 Section 16(1) of the Act provides that statutory sexual assault is committed if—
- (a) an adult or a child who is 16 years or older engages in consensual sexual violation with an adolescent; or
 - (b) two adolescents, where the age difference between them is more than two years, engage in consensual sexual violation with each other.
- 1.4 The Constitutional Court found that sections 15 and 16 of the Act infringe the rights of adolescents in terms of sections 10 (human dignity), 14 (privacy) and 28(2) (best interest of a child) of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996. The Court determined that sections 15 and 16 are unconstitutional insofar as they criminalise consensual sexual conduct between adolescents.
- 1.5 The J case: Section 50(2)(a) of the Act places an obligation on a court to order that the particulars of a convicted person or a person in respect of whom the court has given a direction in terms of section 77(6) or 78(6) of the Criminal Procedure Act, 1977 (Act No. 51 of 1977), must be included in the National Register for Sex Offenders (“the Register”). The provisions of section 50(2)(a) are also applicable to persons who were children at the time of the commission of the sexual offences. The Constitutional Court considered the constitutional validity of section 50(2)(a) of the Act, with specific reference to the “best interest of the child” principle as reflected in section 28(2) of the Constitution. The Court found that the limitation of the right of child offenders in section 50(2)(a) of the Act is not justified in an open and democratic society.

2. OBJECTS OF BILL

- 2.1 The Teddy Bear case: Clause 1 of the Bill aims to amend section 1 of the Act by omitting the reference to an adolescent person, namely a “person who is 12 years or older but under the age of 16”, from the definition of “child”. Clause 2 of the Bill aims to effect the following amendments to section 15 of the Act, dealing with statutory rape:
- (a) Inserting a reference to an adolescent person in subsection (1) for purposes of clarity;
 - (b) decriminalising consensual sexual acts between two adolescent persons ((the proposed new subsection (1)(a)) in line with the Constitutional Court’s finding;

- (c) decriminalising consensual sexual acts between a 16 or 17 year old person and an adolescent person where the age gap between the two persons is not more than two years ((the proposed new subsection (1)(b)); and
 - (d) insofar as subsection (2) is concerned, by retaining the requirement that a decision whether to prosecute a 16 or 17 year old person (where the age gap between such person and the adolescent person is more than two years) or not should be taken by the relevant Director of Public Prosecutions.
- 2.2 Clause 3 of the Bill aims to amend section 16 of the Act, dealing with statutory sexual assault, in the same manner as clause 2 does in respect of section 15 of the Act. The proposed insertion of the two year age gap in respect of 16 or 17 persons and adolescents requires that the two year age gap defence as reflected in section 56(2)(b), should be omitted from that section. Clause 9 of the Bill reflects the required consequential amendment.
- 2.3 Clause 11 aims to introduce a new section 69A in the Act dealing with the removal of the particulars of certain persons from the Register and the expungement of the criminal records of certain persons who have been convicted of contravening section 14 of the Sexual Offences Act, 1957 (Act No. 23 of 1957), or section 15 or 16 of the Act. The provision is a necessary consequence of the judgment of the Constitutional Court in the Teddy Bear case to the extent that a procedure has to be created to ensure that the particulars of adolescent children, if any, who have engaged in consensual sexual activities with their peers, are removed from the Register and that their criminal records are expunged accordingly.
- 2.4 Clause 12 aims to amend the long title of the Act in order to bring it in line with the judgment of the Court and clause 13 aims to amend the index to the Act in order to reflect the heading of the proposed new section 69A.
- 2.5 The J case: Clauses 4, 5 and 6 of the Bill aim to amend sections 46, 47 and 48 of the Act, respectively, in order to clarify the extent of the obligation in respect of a person whose particulars appear in the Register to disclose that fact in certain circumstances.
- 2.6 Clause 7 aims to amend section 50(2) of the Act by the introduction of two new paragraphs. The proposed new paragraph (c) provides that the particulars of a person, who was a child at the time of the commission of the sexual offence concerned, may only be included in the National Register for Sex Offenders after—
- (a) the prosecutor has made an application to the court for such an order;
 - (b) the court has considered a report by the probation officer referred to in section 71 of the Child Justice Act, 2008 (Act No. 75 of 2008), which deals with the probability of the person concerned committing another sexual offence against a child or a person who is mentally disabled, as the case may be, in future; and
 - (c) the person concerned has been given the opportunity to address the court as to why his or her particulars should not be included in the Register.
- Paragraph (c) finally provides that a court may only make an order that the person's particulars be included in the Register if the court is satisfied that substantial and compelling circumstances exist based upon the probation officer's report and any other evidence, which justify the making of such an order. The proposed new paragraph (d) provides that in the event that a court finds that substantial and compelling circumstances exist which justify the making of an order that the particulars of the person concerned be included in the Register, the court must enter such circumstances on the record of the proceedings.
- 2.7 Clause 8 of the Bill aims to amend section 51 of the Act, which deals with the removal of the particulars of persons from the Register. The proposed new subsection (2A) introduces a procedure in terms of which an affected person, who was convicted of a sexual offence against a child or a person who is mentally disabled before the implementation of the Act, may apply to any court for an order that his or her particulars should be removed from the Register. The proposed new subsection (2A) further provides that an affected person, who was convicted of a sexual offence against a child or a person who is mentally disabled after implementation of the Act, may apply to the same court, which made the original order for the inclusion of that person's particulars in the Register, for an order to remove his or her particulars from the Register, on good cause shown.

- 2.8 Clause 10 aims to amend section 67 of the Act by providing that the Minister may make regulations regarding the procedure to be followed in respect of the applications referred to in paragraph 2.2.3, should it become necessary to make such regulations.

3. DEPARTMENTS/BODIES/PERSONS CONSULTED

- 3.1 The Department of Justice and Constitutional Development made a draft Amendment Bill available to numerous key role-players and also made it available on the Department's website. The Gender, Health and Justice Research Unit of the University of Cape Town, the Centre for Child Law of the University of Pretoria (representing the views of 19 organisations and individuals), the Baptists Union of Southern Africa (Christian Citizenship Committee), the Southern African Catholic Bishops' Conference, the Legal Resources Centre, Cape Town, the General Council of the Bar, the South African Law Reform Commission and the Sexual Offences and Community Affairs Unit of the National Prosecuting Authority submitted comments in respect of the proposed amendment of the Act. An institution called "Groundbreakers" submitted a petition that was signed by 1001 persons for purposes of objecting to the lowering of the age of consent. A further 40 individuals submitted individual objections against the lowering of the age of consent.
- 3.2 During the Parliamentary process the Portfolio Committee on Justice and Correctional Services received in excess of 900 submissions, made by individuals and institutions, that were representative of the wider South African society.

4. IMPLICATIONS FOR PROVINCES

None.

5. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS FOR STATE

None.

6. PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

- 6.1 The State Law Advisers and the Department of Justice and Constitutional Development are of the opinion that the Bill must be dealt with in accordance with the procedure established by section 75 of the Constitution, since it contains no provision to which the procedure set out in section 74 or 76 of the Constitution applies.
- 6.2 The principles in the case of Tongoane and Others v National Minister for Agriculture and Land Affairs and Others 2010 (8) BCLR 741 (CC) (the "Tongoane case") is important when determining if a Bill ought to be tagged as either a section 75 or 76 Bill. The test for determining the procedure to be followed in enacting a Bill is whether the provisions of the Bill, in substantial measure, fall within a functional area listed in Schedule 4.
- 6.3 The tagging of the Bill requires firstly, considering all the provisions of the Bill as opposed to a single provision in the Bill and, thereafter, employing the term “substantially” when considering the impact of these provisions on the Provinces. When considering if the Bill substantially affects the Provinces this must be done in accordance with an assessment of all the relevant provisions of the Bill and thereafter a consideration of whether or not the impact of these provisions is not so small as to be regarded as trivial.

6.4 Other key points to consider as stated in the Tongoane case are as follows:

- The tagging of Bills before Parliament must be informed by the need to ensure that provinces fully and effectively exercise their appropriate role in the process of considering national legislation that substantially affects them. Paying less attention to the provisions of a Bill once its substance, or purpose and effect, has been identified undermines the role that provinces should play in the enactment of national legislation affecting them.
- To apply the “pith and substance” test to the tagging question, therefore undermines the constitutional role of the provinces in legislation in which they should have a meaningful say, and disregards the breadth of the legislative provisions that section 76(3) of the Constitution requires to be enacted in accordance with the section 76 procedure.

6.5 If we have to take into consideration the legal principles expounded by the Tongoane case, the following may be deduced from a reading of this Bill:

- The Act is amended to ensure compliance with the Court judgment handed down in the Teddy Bear case wherein sections 15 and 16 of the Act were declared inconsistent with the Constitution and invalid to the extent that they impose criminal liability on children under the age of 16 years. and the J judgement wherein the Court held that section 50(2)(a) of the Act infringed on the right of child offenders to have their best interests considered of paramount importance in terms of section 28(2) of the Constitution. The Register fulfils a vital function in protecting children and persons with mental disabilities from sexual abuse. However, the limitation of the child offender’s right is unjustifiable because a court has no discretion whether to make the order and because there is no related opportunity for child offenders to make representations.
- The purpose of this Bill is to ensure that the constitutional court judgements are complied with and thereby amend the applicable sections of the Act to remedy the current position of constitutional invalidity. It would seem that the Bill, in its current form, would not, in substantial measure, substantially affect the provinces. These provisions do not appear to affect the interests of the province. The judiciary will be affected when implementing the proposed amendments however this will not impact on the Provinces. The Bill therefore should be dealt with in terms of section 75 of the Constitution.

6.6 The State Law Advisers are of the opinion that it is not necessary to refer this Bill to the National House of Traditional Leaders in terms of section 18(1)(a) of the Traditional Leadership and Governance Framework Act, 2003 (Act No. 41 of 2003), since it does not contain provisions pertaining to customary law or customs of traditional communities.
